ABOUT

Opener: Hi, I'm Daisy — Nairobi-based, sound-first, and just as at home behind a mic on a film set as I am producing a night that pulls a room together. Here's a closer look at the work.

Bio: Daisy Nduta is a multidisciplinary creative and cultural producer working across sound, live events, and community-led arts. Her practice is rooted in the craft of sound — she trained as a sound engineer, and that foundation still shapes how she approaches every project, whether the work is heard through headphones or felt across a crowd.

Her work spans Sound — audio post-production and broadcast; Film — location recording and sound design for narrative and documentary storytelling; Curation & Production — event producing and cultural programming; and Cultural Projects — longer-term, multidisciplinary, community-rooted initiatives — including credits at the Melbourne International Film Festival, Golden State Film Festival, and Melbourne Fringe Festival, and events for Melbourne Music Week and MPavilion.

Based in Nairobi. Working across East Africa, Australia, and beyond.

Open items still needed from you:

1. Nightjar and the mau from nowhere music video — both are Producer credits headed for Sound → Film, but still need their release-status wording confirmed (in post-production vs. completed/awaiting release) for each
2. Confirm Binti's year (2022 vs 2023 across your two PDFs)
3. Legacy/Chops & Drops — keep under Broadcast, or add a separate "TV" subtitle?
4. Kaya/Assimilate — keep listed in both Cultural Projects and Sound → Theatre, or pick one?
5. Images: reusing the same images from your PDF portfolios as-is for each project entry — add Vimeo links wherever a reel exists
6. Photos of you on set/at events for the Home page rotation
7. Contact details / social links
